Council Fetes Legislators at Working Meeting to Influence State Agenda

by Elaine Skolnik

On December 17 members of the Greenbelt City Council hosted a dinner-meeting for State Senator Leo Green, Delegates Mary Conroy, Joan Pitkin and Charles Ryan, and County Councilmember Richard Castaldi. Highlighting the occasion was council's presentation of its legislative program for the upcoming legislative session in Annapolis.

Council recommended the enactment of four kinds of specific legislation. First was to "... enable the state to continue the payment of outstanding debt on surplus school land converted to other use." However, if legislation to forgive the debt is not passed, council said it will request the Prince Georges County government to transfer to the city the surplus school sites on Parcels 1 and 2 without requiring payment of the debt between the time the land was declared surplus in 1978 and the time of transfer to the city. The 72-acre tract, located between the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and Greenbelt Homes, Inc. property, is earmarked for parkland by the city.

The amount of bonded debt is estimated to be about $458,000. In November, County Executive Parris Glendening told the News Review, "I don't think it is fair to drop this on the city. We'll try to get the amount reduced or eliminated because (the land) is for public use. If we can't get it reduced or eliminated by the state administratively, we'll see if we can do it legislatively. And if we are still not successful, we will see if some kind of shared arrangement can be made."

Secondly, council hoped the state would provide 50-50 matching grant funds for "the conversion of surplus school buildings for social service uses other than senior citizen centers," such as day care and after school centers for preschool children and/or senior citizens. The present state program is limited to 50-50 matching grant funds on a competitive basis for converting surplus school buildings into senior citizen centers.

At the present time council, the city's advisory boards and residents are evaluating possible uses of the North End School. The county deeded the property to the city for public use only.

Council also hopes the state will provide "added state or county assistance for Greenbelt's 50th Anniversary projects and, in particular, for the Greenbelt Museum". An International Conference on Planned Communities, the Annual Conference of the Maryland Citizen Planners Association, and the Fall Legislative Conference of the Maryland Municipal League are among events the city will host in 1987.

Lastly, council members would like the state to prohibit "the sale of flowers and other articles upon state highways or, at least, heavily used state highways..." Council explained that vendor — favored locations on Greenbelt Road and Kenilworth Avenues are "unsafe from a traffic control perspective".

Turning then to matters under county jurisdiction, the city council recommended that county legislation be enacted to "amend the subdivision regulations to provide that, when an established shopping center obtains permits for additions, it be required to bring parking areas up to current ordinance requirements unless waived by the County Council". Council pointed out that new construction along Greenbelt Road and behind the Beltway Plaza Shopping Center has resulted in changed traffic patterns and, particularly, in much greater use of the shopping center's rear parking lot.

Council stressed that site plan review should be provided so that the adequacy of public facilities and site problems can be addressed prior to new construction.

Council also urged their guests to support the four legislative requests of the Maryland Municipal League (MML). MML recommends the enactment of legislation to:

(1) "... create a state funded general purpose grant program to offset the loss of federal General Revenue Sharing funds."

(2) Establish "a limit on the tort liability of local governments". Because of the large settlements awarded by the courts in liability cases filed against local governments, insurance rates have increased rapidly on policies for public officials as well as other liability insurance coverages required by the city.

(3) "... require sufficient notice to municipalities prior to the placement of a group home or halfway house for the disadvantaged in a municipal residential neighborhood."

(4) "Establish a deliberative body composed of representatives from municipal, county and state governments to foster greater cooperation between units of governments in reviewing state/local fiscal relationships."

Red Cross Needs Blood

Now to Prevent Shortages

For the first time, the critical need for blood is bringing the American Red Cross' Washington Region and Central Maryland Blood Services together in announcing an urgent appeal for all blood types.

According to Dr. Fred Darr, Medical Director for American Red Cross Washington Regional Blood Service, "It is becoming increasingly difficult to maintain adequate community blood supplies, especially during the holiday season. Accidents, vacations and personal commitments keep the need for blood up, and the availability of blood donors down," he said.

"We need an immediate and sustained response from the public to prevent additional critical shortages," notes Dr. Paul Ness, Executive Director for Red Cross Central Maryland Blood Services and Johns Hopkins Hospital's Blood Bank. "Donating blood is a humanitarian gesture. One cannot get AIDS or any other disease through donating blood," he added, "because we use sterile needles and other materials that are used once and then discarded."

Persons interested in making a blood donation are urged to call Prince Georges Red Cross at 559-8500 for the bloodmobile site nearest them.

Ten Top Stories of 1986

by Virginia Beauchamp, Mavis Fletcher, Betsy Likowski, Diane Oberg and Mary Lou Williamson

In accordance with its annual custom the Greenbelt News Review has selected the ten top Greenbelt stories of 1986. This year the following were chosen.

50th Anniversary

All during 1986, Greenbelt's 50th Anniversary Committee and numerous subcommittees busily prepared for year-long, blow-out, birthday party in 1987. Programs in varying stages of completion are: Adopt-a-tree program adding new green to Greenbelt; 20-minute slide show featuring then and now views of city, along with touch of history; full-color calendar, post cards and posters; three-day international conference on New Towns; an enlarged Labor Day Festival; reunion weekend in October; city-wide house and garden tour; video-taped interviews of community leaders and interesting residents to be broadcast throughout 1987; a 350-page pictorial history of Greenbelt. Individual organizations plan additional celebrations, such as News Review's 50th anniversary dinner in November.

Savings and Loans

In January, on opening day of the legislative session, savings and loan depositors march on state capitol in Annapolis to protest lack of access to their money for five months. Mellon Bank of Maryland acquires Community Savings and Loan, opening for business in May. In September David Lange is voted Outstanding Citizen, in large part because of his leadership in depositors' organizations. At year's end, despite several payments by Maryland Deposit Insurance Fund, many depositors in Old Court and First Maryland savings and loans, both in receivership, still have some funds frozen.

Budget

In June city council approves $6.6 million budget for fiscal 1987, increase of 22.2 percent over 1986. Council agrees with city manager's proposal to fund three new positions in police department, two and a half in manager's office, four and a half in parks/public works and nine new police cars. When 16 percent increase in revenues from new construction and increased assessments falls short of needs, council adds six cents to tax rate but rejects manager's bid for additional five cents to fund the last $650,000 needed to balance budget, choosing instead to use reserves.

North End School

The year begins with architectural study by Grimm and Parker recommending that the two-story portion of North End School be torn down because of extensive damage and code violations. In July, a new group, Citizens for the North End Center (CNEC) forms to support renovation of the school and to develop proposals for its use. Decision is delayed by uncertainty concerning how much, if any, of the $2 million "bricks and mortar" bond issue funds will remain after police station is built. Year ends with more studies, including surveys by CNEC and the city's Community Relations Advisory Board.

Parkland Acquisition

Greenbelt gets another park when, in July, city receives deed to Schrom Hills Park, a 37-acre wooded area off Hanover Parkway across from Hunting Ridge. City's Parks and Recreation Advisory Board is working on a conceptual plan for the new park, which will contain the five-acre Greenbrook Pond. Plans for pond include a surrounding path, picnic tables, landscaping, and over all semi-natural appearance to the encompassing area.

During the year several possibilities arose for city to acquire for park use land that is currently privately owned but undeveloped. As part of plans to develop Parcel 15, the Milton Company proposes to give to the city ten acres closest to the lake park. Earlier in 1986, when Parcels 1 and 2 are up for rezoning, owner opens negotiations with city about the possibility of city acquiring one or both parcels. Rezoning petitions are withdrawn, negotiations are in limbo.

Fate of surplus school board land — 72 acres between GHI homes and B-W Parkway — is still being negotiated among city, county and state officials who are trying to determine who will pay the bonded indebtedness on land.

Roads

Greenbelters focus on road construction, present and future, as drivers mark time in traffic jams or thread through changing traffic patterns in rebuilding of Kenilworth-Greenbelt Rd. intersection. Timetables for roads projects meet delays as commercial and residential development continues. Greenbelt Rd. bridge over Kenilworth, due to carry traffic by October's end, is finally opened eastbound in mid-December. Extension of Hanover Parkway to Good Luck Rd. is held up by city's request for rerouting past Hunting Ridge, but other planned projects come closer as county voters in November pass an $80 million bond referendum for road construction. Included will be widening of Cherrywood Lane in Springhill Lake, construction of northern section of Cherrywood through Capital Office Park, widening of Greenbelt Rd. between Mandan Rd. and Kenilworth interchange, and redesign of Greenbelt Rd.-B-W Parkway interchange and bridge. One and a half million dollars of federal funds, allocated by Congress in Fiscal Year 1986, will pay a part of the cost of reconstructing the Parkway overpass and access ramps. The remaining cost will be advanced from county bond funds.

Roosevelt Center

Charette participants, citizens and outsiders, continue working on plans to revitalize Roosevelt Center. Most agree that holistic approach is crucial, though city, responding to complaints about dangerous sidewalks, makes temporary repairs. Two teams, a design group including volunteer outside experts, and a resource group, study charette plans, report to city in May public hearing with list of do's and don'ts. All agree that resurfacing of building exteriors is top priority. Among concerns are inadequacy of parking, possible move of the Greenbelt post office, impact on Center of possible site for proposed indoor swimming pool. One eyesore, the vacated barbershop, is eliminated by new tenant, who beautifies premises. Citizens disagree whether gatherings of young people in Center are asset or affront. In November council authorizes hiring of landscape architects for Center renovation, in December refers Center owner

Library System Issues Annual Report for FY86

The Prince Georges County Memorial Library System has recently published its annual report for Fiscal Year 1986. The report gives financial and service highlights for the period July 1, 1986 through June 30, 1986.

According to the data in the report, the library received $11.8 million in county government funds, or 1.6 percent of the entire county budget. The library system used these funds and state, federal, self-generated and gift monies to operate during the fiscal year.

Visits to the 22 branches totaled 2.8 million, library staff received over 720,000 reference questions and 3.8 million materials were checked out.

The report also contains a tear-off list of county agencies and their phone numbers. Copies of this annual report can be obtained at all branch libraries and the Administrative Offices. Call 699-3500 for more information.

Corrections

In last week's story, "Congressional Appropriation Accelerates B-W Bridge Work," the correct amount of federal funds to be used directly for improvements to the Greenbelt Road (Route 193)/B-W Parkway interchange is $1.5 million. Last week's figure was in error.

In the holiday message from the City of Greenbelt, Cable TV coordinator Renee Bryan's name was misspelled.

The News Review regrets the errors.

Letters to the Editor

Pony Express Volunteer

Hurrah for Mr. Field's suggested Pony Express Service! I hope he knows he is not alone with his ongoing conversation with the Post Office and that we too run back and forth with our neighbors exchanging mail erroneously delivered.

As original Boxwood Village residents, we were part of an "established route." The mail was delivered by the same mailman (except on days off) and was seldom later than 12:30 or 1 p.m. Now it is necessary to put the porch light on to bring in the mail.

When did we lose the status of "established route"? Who determined the priority? We were certainly here before Capital Office Park. Do they pay more for their stamps than we do?

If the volume for the office complex is so great, couldn't it be delegated to one carrier? Evidently, the overflow, which is now Boxwood, is too great for one person.

It is very unsettling to see a different person each day handling the mail. The only evidence that they are with the Postal Service is the mail itself. If these are carriers from other "established routes" doing us a favor, are they not required to be in some semblance of uniform. Even the clerks in the Post Office itself wear some type of uniform.

If Mr. Field still is in need of volunteers for his Pony Express Service, he can count on us.

Co-op Announces Drawing Winners, Annual Refund

The winners of last week's Christmas drawings at the Co-op grocery store were:

Linda Callahan, microwave oven; Morris Rothchild, $100 gift certificate; Phyllis Rester, giant eight-foot filled Santa stocking.

Patronage refunds totaling $53,612.00 were also distributed to 1,520 members during Christmas week. Due to a changeover in fiscal year from January to July, the refund included only seven months patronage.

All shoppers at the Co-Op Supermarket, pharmacy and service station can share in the profits by purchasing a membership, according to Michael Burchick, membership chairman. Membership in the Co-Op entitles one to discount purchases and check cashing privileges.

THANKS!

The Greenbelt Lions Club wants to thank the citizens of Greenbelt for their support of our "Toys For Tots" program. We collected over a van full of toys as well as $55 from donors in lieu of toys and $80 for Children's Hospital. The Lions increased the contribution to Children's Hospital by $20 and sent a check for $100. Since the "Toys For Tots" organization does not accept money, the Lions increased the $55 contribution to $100 and gave it to the Greenbelt Council of Ministers for its use in the city. All in all, this was a great success because of you.

At 4 p.m. the group will conduct a clogging workshop for ages 8 and up. It is limited to 40 participants.

Clogging emerged from southern Appalachia but its roots began with Irish, Welsh, Scottish and English immigrants with a strong touch of American Indian and Black American influence.

"The Foreigner" Arrives At Petrucci's Theater

Petrucci's Dinner Theater will present "The Foreigner" by the late Larry Shue beginning January 8 and running through March 29.

The Foreigner will be presented Thursday through Sunday evenings with selected Wednesday and Sunday matinees. Call 725-5226 for information and reservations.

to APB concerning proposed new building beside beauty shop.

New Police Station

From list of 15 possible sites, city council selects Parcel 8, a wooded tract bounded by Crescent, Ridge, Kenilworth and the Lake-side North apartments, as location for new police facility. Preliminary designs are based on list of required spaces put together by former Police Chief Frank Hutson before he leaves Greenbelt for job as chief of police of Cocoa Beach, Florida. Unable to pare down this list, council approves construction of two-story, 16,000-square-foot building estimated to cost more than $1.7 million. This figure may put at risk other building projects (additions to Youth Center and Public Works Facility and renovation of North End School) which were candidates for some of the $2 million "bricks and mortar" portion of 1985 bond authorization.

Greenbelt Museum

December sees purchase by city of an original Greenbelt home for museum. Friends of the Greenbelt Museum, together with an ad hoc museum committee, spearhead year-long effort to raise funds, members and community consciousness. Results are 212 memberships in FOGM and over $8,000 in funds. Broad community support materializes at November council meeting to urge city's purchase of the unit at 10-B Crescent Road, despite efforts of others who oppose such use of tax dollars.

Development

By year's end Building 5 in Capital Office Park, sheathed in blue reflective glass, nears completion, representative of generally high-quality development occurring throughout the city. Distinctive blue tower is first half of twin office buildings planned for the site on a hill across Ivy Lane from the Beltway. Across town, construction starts on third building in Maryland Trade Center Park. The 15-story, curvilinear tower is final stage of an eight-year build-out of the 39-acre site south of Greenway Shopping Center.

East of Greenway across Hanover Parkway, construction starts in Greenbrook subdivision following agreement with city on location of stormwater management pond and improvements to Hanover Parkway. When completed, this upscale development will include over 100 single-family homes and 220 townhouses on a 74-acre site curving around Schrom Hills Community Park. Construction also starts on Hanover Office Park, located on nine-acre site at Hanover Parkway and Greenbrook Drive. Planning calls for 27 contemporary three-story office buildings of townhouse design. Completion of first phase is planned for spring 1987. Grading on corner of Greenbelt Road and Hanover Parkway across from Greenbriar also starts in preparation for construction of five-story office building.

In west Greenbelt, the new Greenbelt Professional Center, a 31-unit development of townhouse structures on Edmonston Road, is sold out by fall and about 75% occupied by doctors, accountants, lawyers and other professionals. Oxford Development Enterprises, Inc. moves into new building in Golden Triangle Business Park in mid-year. Four-story building with rounded facade is Oxford's first signature office building.

In central Greenbelt, city council approves agreement for development of wooded land south of Greenbelt lake. In return for city support of town home zoning for tract behind Charlestowne Village and commercial zoning northwest of American Legion along Beltway, developer agrees to deed to city ten crucial acres of treed land along lake.

"Homegrown" developments also are started at Research and Ridge Roads as ground is broken for Northridge and Farmgate, custom homes built by individuals. Owners of these sites develop tracts with single-family homes so that, as one owner phrases it, "... families can move up within and not out of Greenbelt."

WSSC HOLDS HEARING ON MINORITY PROGRAM

The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission has scheduled a public hearing to gain citizen input on the revision of its Mandatory Minority Business Enterprise Program.

Designed to increase the participation of minority-owned firms in Commission contracts for legal, financial and other professional services, the proposals will be discussed on January 7 at 3 p.m. The Commission's hearing room is at 4017 Hamilton Street, Hyattsville.

Already having a dynamic program covering minority participation (with $68,000,000 for goods and services contracts and $69,000,000 in construction contracts) the Commission now plans to further expand its coverage. Architectural/engineering consultant services are already covered under engineering program regulations, but other professional services — such as legal and financial — have not been specifically addressed heretofore. If approved, the new procedure would bring remedies to these program areas. The Commission intends to make every reasonable effort to award at least 15 percent of the total dollar value of these contracts to certified minority firms.

Interested persons unable to attend the public hearing may submit comments in writing to: William S. Lindung, Secretary/Treasurer, WSSC, 4017 Hamilton Street, Hyattsville, Md. 20781. Comments received before the hearing will be read into the record.

First Maryland Checks Distributed by MDIF

The Maryland Deposit Insurance Fund Corporation (MDIF) today announced that depositors of First Maryland Savings and Loan, Inc. are being sent checks as part of a second distribution of funds, which totals $41.5 million.

MDIF Director Melville S. Brown said First Maryland officials today began mailing approximately 9,600 checks to depositors who still have accounts at the thrift, which is in receivership.

"This distribution will allow depositors to receive 15% of each account they hold at First Maryland," said Brown.

Funding for this distribution and all future payments will come directly from the sale of First Maryland's assets. MDIF expects to complete the payback of insured funds to depositors by December, 1989.

Parking Garage Opens At New Carrollton Station

A new 1,000-car garage opened December 22 to serve patrons of the Metrorail and Amtrak stations at New Carrollton. Representatives of the Prince Georges County government, the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, and the Federal Railroad Administration — the three entities paying for the garage — untied a huge ribbon opening this "Christmas present" for metropolitan area residents.

In addition County Executive Parris Glendening announced that within a month, the county will be requesting bids on the construction of a new 600-car parking lot at the Landover Metrorail station. The lot will be jointly funded by the county and the Federal Railroad Administration.

Hilton to Host Bridal Show

The Greenbelt Hilton & Towers will start the new year by hosting a bridal show Sunday, January 4 from noon until 6 p.m. All proceeds from the event will benefit the American Association.

Two fashion shows are scheduled to feature the latest in bridal and formal attire. Experts will be available to offer advice on planning the perfect wedding and reception as well as selecting invitations, flowers and photographers. More than a dozen exhibitors will showcase services and merchandise that can play an important role in staging a successful wedding.

"We have more and more couples coming to Hilton for their wedding receptions," said Patrick Duffy, General Manager of the hotel. "We thought this would provide the perfect opportunity for brides and grooms — and of course interested family members — to get a glimpse of the total wedding picture."

A highlight of the day will be the grand prize drawing for a dream honeymoon — including five nights at any Hilton Hotel of their choice plus air fare, wedding gown, formal attire for attendants, limousine service, and a wedding cake.

Tickets are available at the door at a nominal fee.

Eleanor Roosevelt High School Celebrates Tenth Anniversary

by Sarah R. Stern

In honor of Eleanor Roosevelt High School's tenth anniversary, three presentations were made this December. Dr. Jerome Karle, a Nobel Laureate in Chemistry, spoke at the annual National Honor Society induction on December 5. On December 10, Dr. Edward Turner, President of the Potomac Institute for Creative Health Education, spoke to teachers on the subject of stress management. Lastly, Robert Shanklin, a physicist from the Science Corporation, spoke to Roosevelt's physics students.

Upon entering Roosevelt High School on the morning of the NHS inductions, the excited sounds of the school's Jazz Band gave the immediate impression that something special was happening. Indeed, that morning presented the rare opportunity to many students of speaking to a Nobel Laureate. Dr. Karle who is the Chief Scientist of the Laboratory for the Structure of Matter at the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C., began his address in an informal tone. "It's a little difficult to talk about the technical part of my profession..." he said. "I thought I'd tell you a little about life..." Through talking about his personal background, he offered advice to students, emphasizing that success is the result of infinite dedication and persistence.

Karle said he always knew he would be a scientist. "My teachers got some pretty strange book reports," he said, referring to his interest in scientific journals at the early age of nine. Indeed, from such an early age, Karle was dedicated and persistent. His genuine curiosity about science and, Karle says, the supportive structure of the New York City school system pulled him along, although his parents were not well-educated. Although economic obstacles forced Karle to take out two years in the middle of his graduate education to work, his dedication brought him around this barrier eventually too.

With these descriptions of himself, Karle brought himself down off the pedestal he is automatically placed on because of his achievements, and onto a level that students could relate to. Karle spoke informally with small groups of students in the school library after the induction ceremony. As soon as he sat down to converse with a couple of Roosevelt students in a corner of the room, a small crowd gathered around him. He spoke quite comfortably on a person-to-person basis with the students, occasionally telling anecdotes about his childhood and quoting Einstein to make a philosophical point. Few students get the experience of a give-and-take conversation with a famous scientist in an informal setting, and the scientifically-oriented Roosevelt could not have chosen a more appropriate celebrity than the local Dr. Karle to speak to its students.

Stress

The anniversary celebration continued on the 10th of December with a presentation on stress given to Roosevelt's teachers, in recognition of the levels of stress teachers have experienced throughout the history of Roosevelt. Dr. Edward Turner, president of the Potomac Institute for Creative Health Education, acting as professor, quickly put Roosevelt's teachers in the roles of students. When Turner asked questions about the types of stress teachers experience, the teachers raised their hands with examples, whispering comments to their neighbors much like their own students. After identifying their main sources of stress, Turner suggested a method of relaxation. He also lectured on the "burnout cycle" as teachers made comments to each other about their personal experience with these phenomena.

Physics

The last event in celebration of Roosevelt's tenth anniversary was the appearance of Robert Shanklin, a physicist from the Computer Sciences Corporation. Shanklin, whose work is connected to NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, presented a short slide show on the historical aspect of physics to Roosevelt's physics students. Shanklin answered questions both about his personal education and about physics.

Specialty Programs Expand In County School System

New proposals are now being planned by Superintendent John A. Murphy and his staff to increase the number of elementary and middle schools that would offer specialty programs next year under the "School System of Choices" effort in Prince George's County.

As many as nine new schools may be added in order to expand this year's three most popular programs—Traditional Academy, Science and Mathematics, and Talented and Gifted. More than 2,200 applications received for these programs this year were not accepted because of space and desegregation limitations.

The expansion would be in addition to the already planned opening of three new programs: the University High School and the Center for Visual and Performing Arts at Suitland High School, and the Thomas Pullen Creative Arts Elementary and Middle School. Moreover, two current programs are already set to expand: the Humanities and Social Sciences Program at Andrew Jackson Middle School and the Traditional Academy Program at Lord Baltimore Middle School.

If the new plans are ultimately approved, the school system would have 10 specialty programs offered in 42 schools—one-fourth of the public schools in Prince Georges County next year.

This year's specialty programs, in which 5,080 students are enrolled in seven programs at 29 schools, achieved desegregation goals for 24 schools. The 24 schools, representing 83 percent of the specialty school program, have met the short-term goal of enrolling sufficient numbers of non-black students to successfully begin the process of providing a fully desegregated school.

Of the 29 schools in the entire program, five schools have not reached their desegregation goals at this time. Each of these five schools offer the Extended Day Program. Proposals call for continued enhancement of the program next year, including the possible opening of full-day kindergarten services at one or more schools.

The new expansion plans are prompted by the more than 2,200 applications that could not be approved because of limited space and desegregation requirements.

The Traditional Academy Program would gain as many as three new elementary schools and one new middle school under current proposals now being considered.

The Science and Mathematics Program would gain three elementary schools. The expanded program, if approved, would have six elementary schools and three middle schools, in addition to the Science and Technology Program at Eleanor Roosevelt and Oxon Hill high schools.

Soccer News

by Kevin Wheatley

The Free State Flyers put on an exhibition Saturday, December 20 at the expense of Greenbelt's 10-year-olds' indoor soccer team by using talents never before imagined by anyone in this area. The Flyers showed for all in attendance the awesome power of an N.C.S.L. (National Capital Soccer League) Division 1 team.

At the opening whistle, Jason Everhart set up Scott Lubey with a nice pass, allowing him to score the first goal. From that moment on, goalkeepers Shawn Wilson and Adam Wheatley faced a never ending onslaught of offensive fire. Fending off shot after shot, the Flyers defeated Greenbelt 9-1.

The Greenbelt team should not be discouraged by this encounter. Instead, it should be used as inspiration to work hard on their skills so that one day, some other team's local newspaper will write about Greenbelt using words like "awesome," "onslaught" and "at the expense of."

The Ellerlins have two children, daughter Susan living in Boston, Mass., and son Michael living in Paramus, N.J., and three grandchildren Ashley and Seth Ellerlin and Adam Albert Janjigian.

Pearl is a recently retired Prince Georges County art teacher.

Md. Drivers Overlook State Seatbelt Law

The Greenbelt Police Department reports that in many of the traffic accidents investigated since the inception of the Maryland law July 1, 1986 requiring the wearing of seatbelts one or more of the occupants was not wearing a seatbelt. The police department reminds motorists that the Maryland Motor Vehicle Law requires that the driver and front seat passengers must utilize seatbelts when the vehicle is being operated. A violation could result in a $25 fine if the driver is unrestrained. In the case of an unrestrained front seat passenger the driver and/or the passenger may be fined $25, depending on the passenger's age. The law also requires that every motor vehicle registered in the State of Maryland and manufactured or assembled after June 1, 1964 be equipped with two seatbelts on the front seat.

With regard to children traveling in motor vehicles the law requires the following:

- Any person transporting a child under the age of 3 shall position and secure the child in a child safety seat.
- Any person transporting a child at least 3 years old but under the age of 5 shall:
 - (1) Position and secure the child in a safety seat; or
 - (2) Seat and secure the child in a properly fastened seatbelt or combination seat belt-shoulder harness.

The Police Department encourages and urges all motorists to use their seatbelts.

Higher Competition Sought By New Soccer Team

by Nancy Boardman

Greenbelt soccer is on the brink of another step forward. Work is progressing to field the first-ever Greenbelt team in the National Capital Soccer League. NCSL began 10 years ago and today has nearly 400 teams playing from Maryland, Virginia and Washington, D.C. Players range from 8-18 years old in the league which is divided in three divisions per age, according to team ability.

It all adds up to fun, challenge, and the promise of significant growth in soccer skills as young people who excel in this sport face off. Some may even dream of college soccer scholarships as scouts cover league play at the oldest and highest levels.

Up until now young Greenbelters who wished to join NCSL had to play on teams in Bowie or Laurel. But now a group of parents who strongly believe that Greenbelt has the talent to field its own NCSL team are working hard to see that accomplished for the coming spring season. A group of young people born in 1976 and 1977 has proven itself in inter-league and indoor soccer tournament play over the years. Their parents and coaches believe these young people are now ready for the next step.

Being a new team they would enter NCSL in the Maryland third division for those born in 1976 or later and work their way up from there. Many of the players who will try out for the new team on January 10 are now playing on a Greenbelt team in a Bowie indoor soccer league in which their team is the only non-NCSL team. In their first scrimmage they beat by 4-2 a Bowie 1977 team which placed second in the NCSL Maryland Division Two. The next week they played a 1976 team which was in second place for that age in NCSL Maryland Division Two. This time the tables were turned, a 9-1 defeat for Greenbelt.

Key to the confidence of the team are the outstanding coaches ready to teach and guide them. A former professional soccer player who is also a coach and teacher of the sport, Victor Gamalido will be the skills specialist for the players. Looking over the long term, his goal is not a run of immediate wins, but the growth of solid soccer skills and understanding of game strategy which will ultimately lead to a top quality team.

Sharing these goals is head coach Isidore Lynch. Isidore has been a Greenbelt soccer coach for four years and is well known and respected for his hard work for community soccer. A new assistant coach, Manuel Pereira, will join the team. In his native Portugal Manuel grew up playing soccer, and during his college years he organized and played on an international students team. Kevin Wheatley is planning to be team manager, and is known to Greenbelters for his coaching of Greenbelt inter-league and county
